Foreword

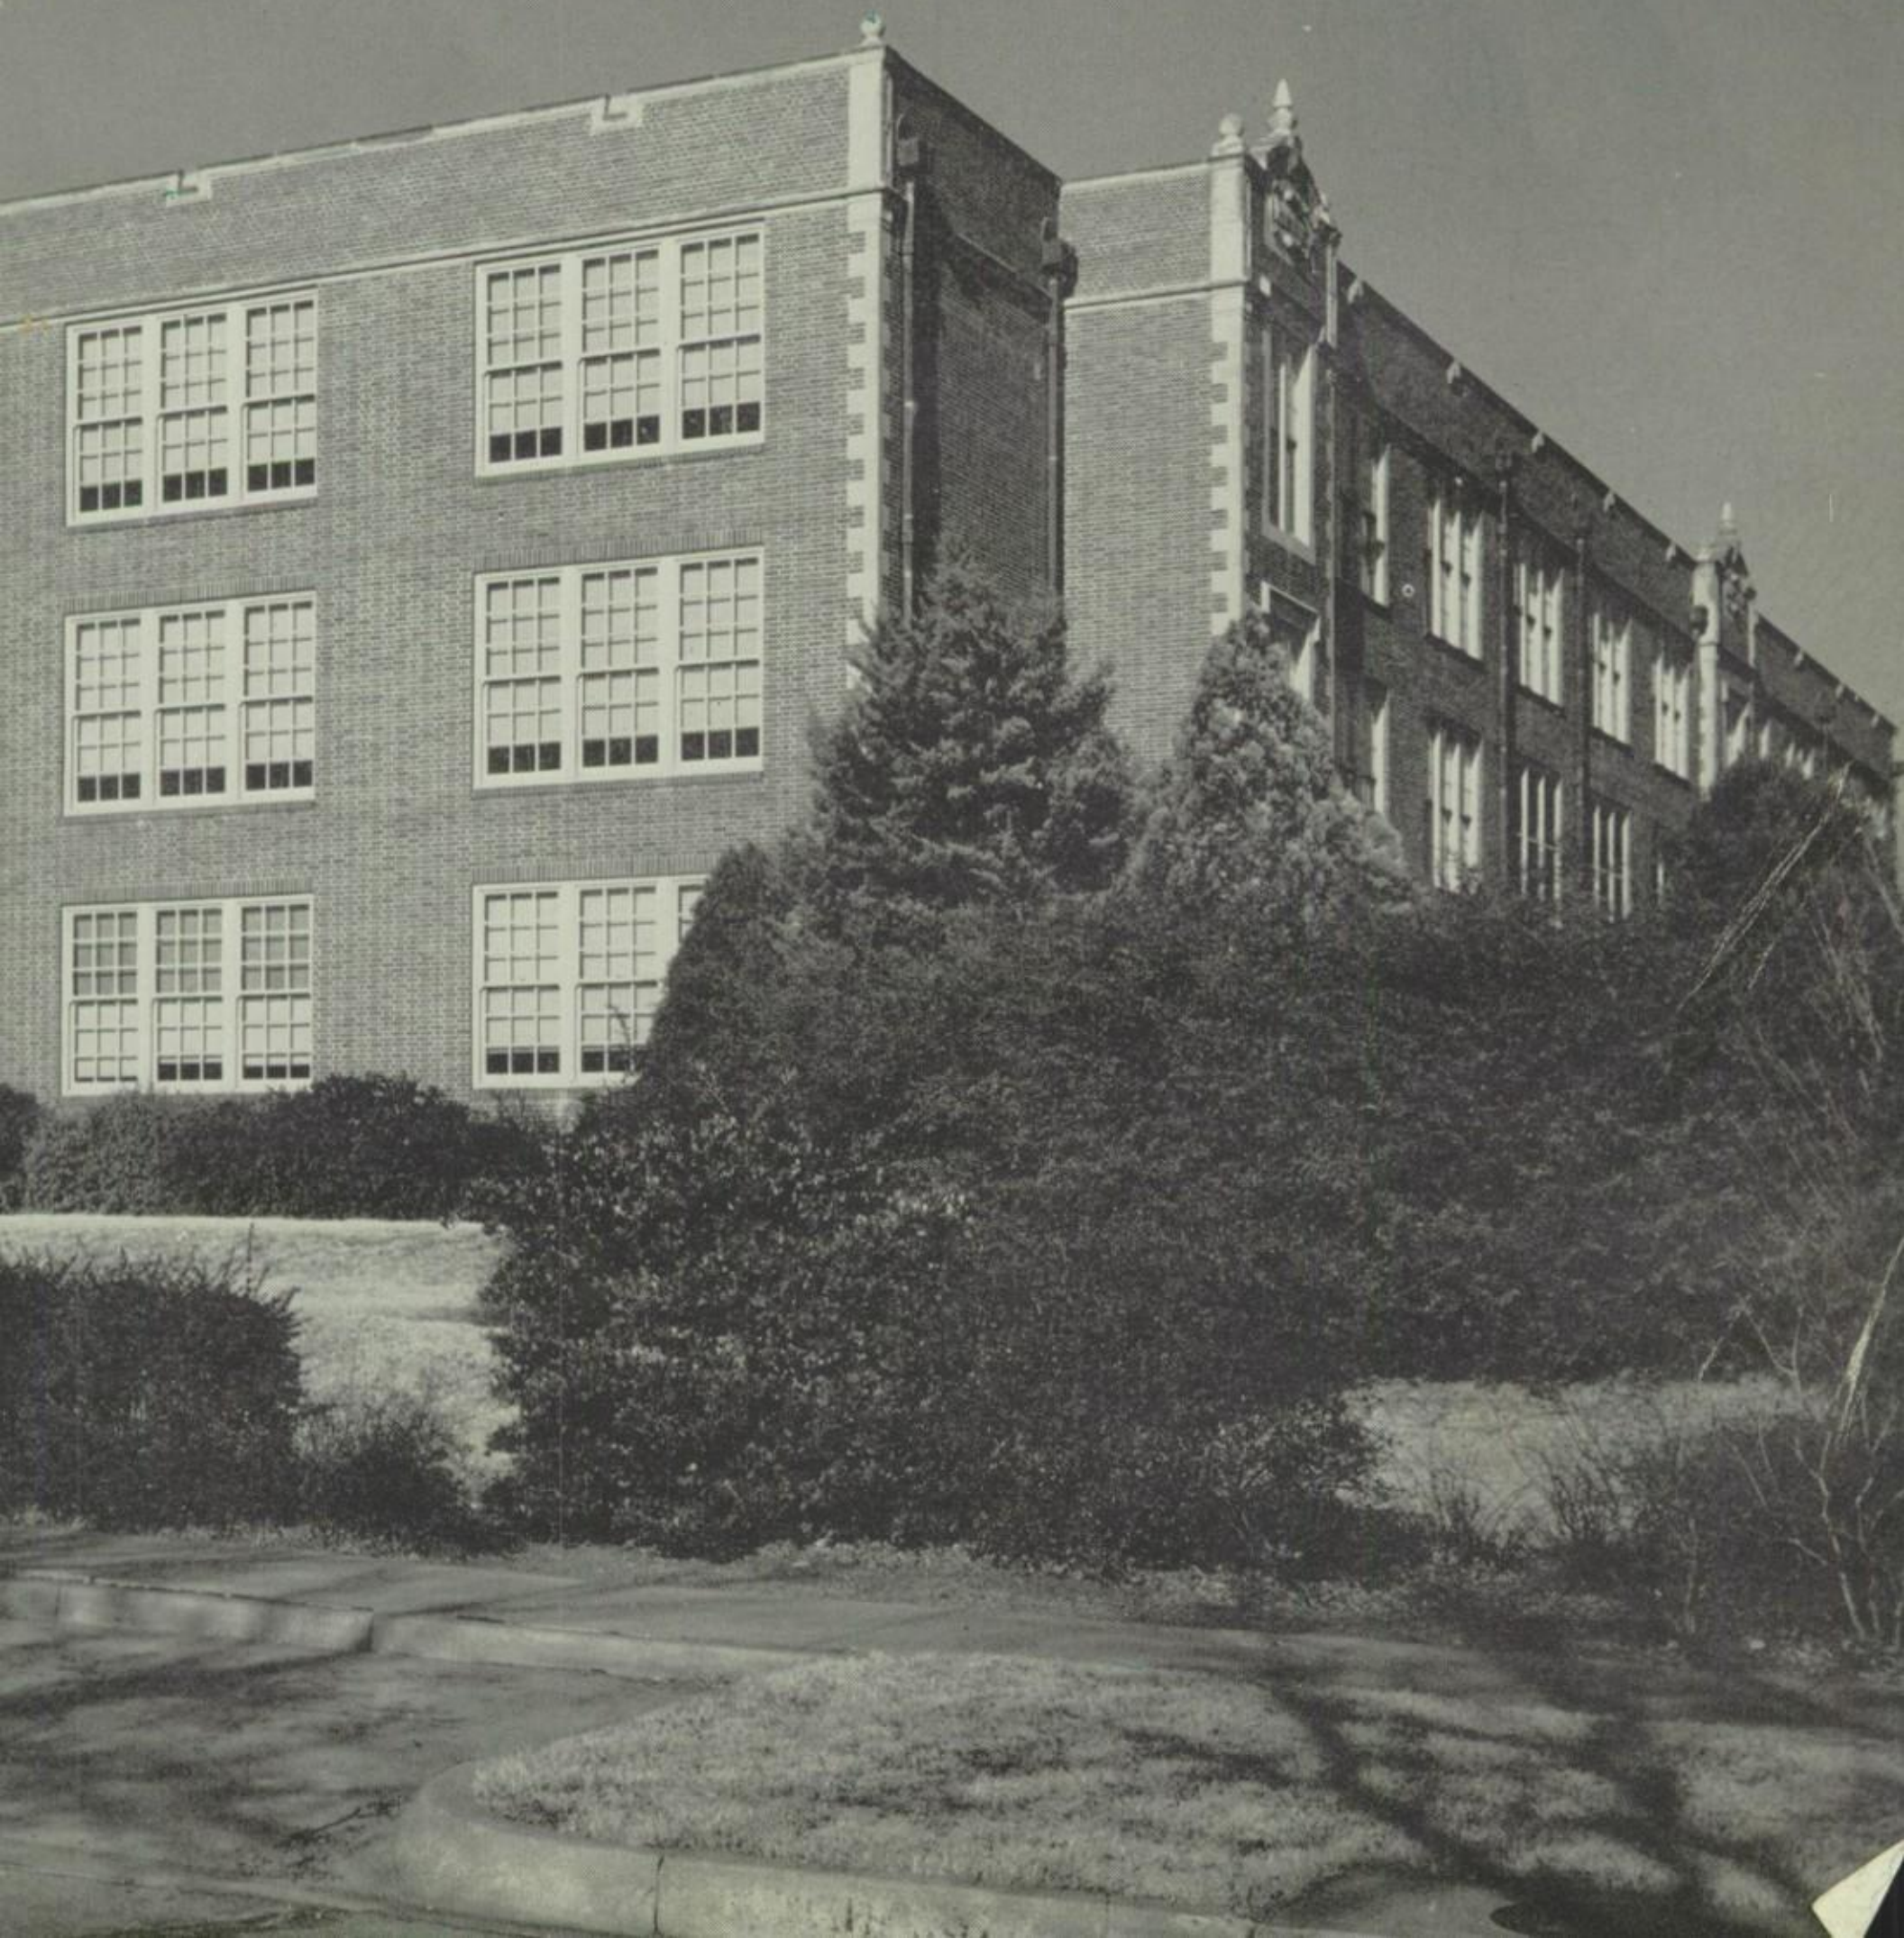

In this, the eighteenth volume of the Crusader, the staff is presenting the annual record of the activities of the student body of Woodrow Wilson High School.

We hope that this book will remind you in words, as well as in pictures, of the personalities and events that contributed to your pleasure during the year.

THE STAFF

Fr

During World War I, President Woodrow Wilson began working for eternal world peace. He believed the one way to accomplish this peace was through a world-wide League of Nations. Trying to win his country's approval of his idea, he made a crusade throughout the nation advocating the immediate ratification of the League. However, much to President Wilson's disappointment, the United States defeated his idea by voting against joining the League. Worn out by his terrific efforts, he died disappointed.

Our school annual was named "The Crusader" in tribute to this Crusade that Mr. Wilson made for the League of Nations and its idea of peace among men.

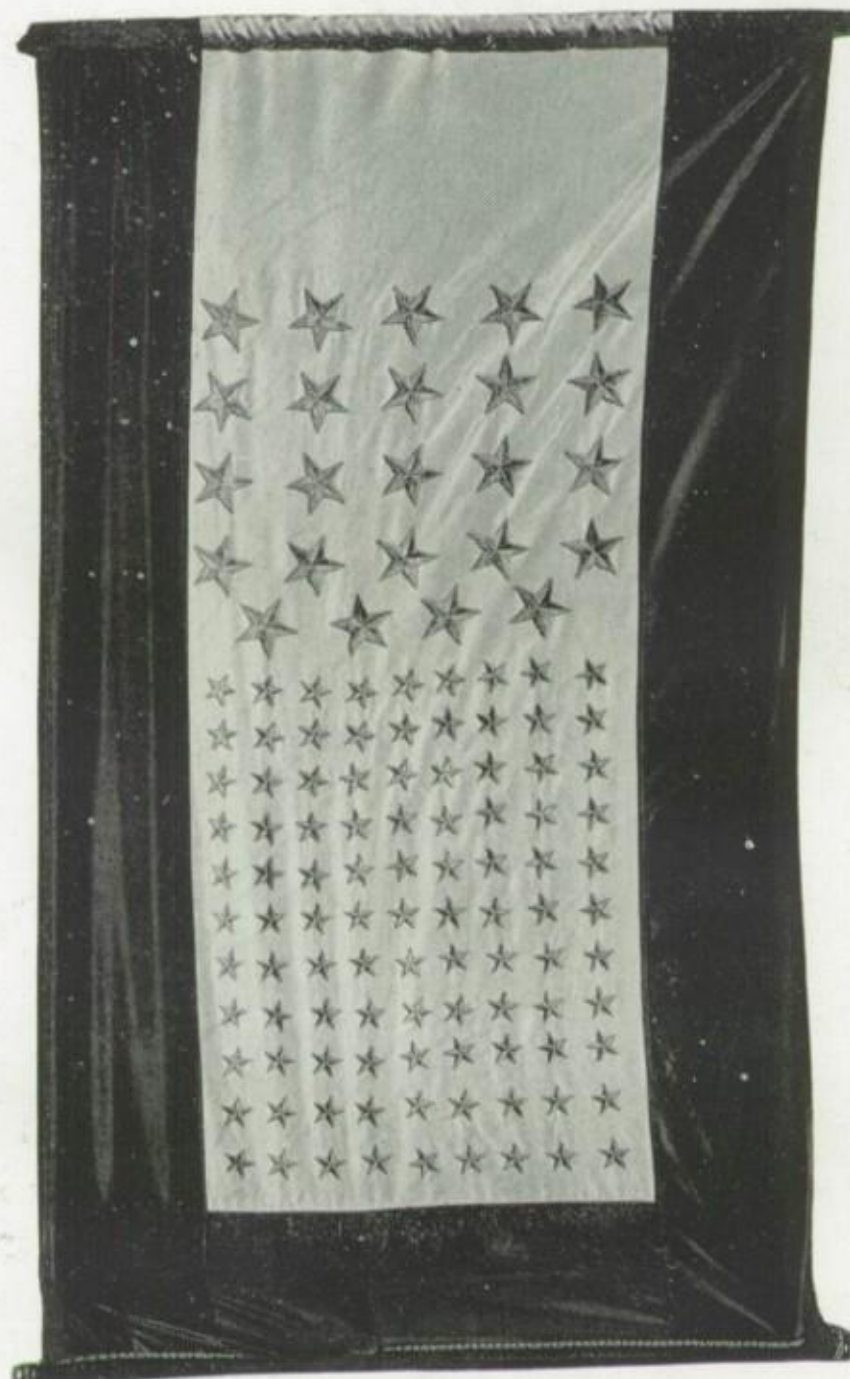

IN appreciation of his many years of service and unfailing work as Business Manager, we, the Crusader staff of 1946, dedicate this eighteenth volume of the Crusader to a man who has always been ready to help us in every need,

MR. BUFORD A. CATES.

President's Message

To build a happy peaceful future for these our children, we must help to maintain the peace won by so much bitterness, sadness, suffering, and heartaches endured by so many.

We must help to establish and give spiritual guidance, to insure justice and domestic tranquility, and to hold secure the blessings of liberty for ourselves and our posterity.

May we, through Divine guidance, hold ourselves and help our youth to hold to the high ideals we must have to ever go forward to accomplish our objectives.

Sincerely,

Mrs. Albert G. Benfer

Dads Club
President's Message

It is a pleasant privilege to greet you at this time on behalf of your Dads Club. The opportunity brings to mind and heart a keen feeling of responsibility, and therefore we hope to leave some word or thought on this page that may be helpful to you as you face the future.

These are changed and changing times. Local, National, and International procedures—domestic, economic, and religious thinking—all are involved. Changes come in cycles, and just now we are riding at the very crest of a tidal wave of change. Many old guideposts, honored and true for ages, are now submerged beneath this wave. The channel is rough and swift, and the next few years are going to test all of the God-given skills of the navigator. It will take both hands on the wheel and both eyes on the shore, to keep the Course straight and true, and to avoid the shallows. Who so fails to recognize and prepare for these changes, will merit not the "well done" of the Captain on the bridge.

What may we expect of the future? What will the atomic age mean in our lives? Have we a right to the pursuit of happiness—to strive for success? These and many other questions flood our minds. To all of them there can be, there MUST be, but one answer. This is America! In our Nation, three guideposts still stand strong and steady—the school, the church, and the home. These three are submerged by no tidal wave of change, and by them we must chart our Course for the future and move steadily forward as generations of our forefathers have done.

Today's student is tomorrow's business executive. Today's youth is tomorrow's leader in the community. The future waits on you. To meet its challenge, you will need character wrought in the finest of material. The sacred heritage is yours. You will not fail!

We salute today, you on whose shoulders falls the cloak of tomorrow's leadership.

Trustfully yours,
Lloyd M. Campbell
